Its remote Wi-Fi access, flip & serve... Weber Grills are the ultimate badge of honor to grill masters across the United States. Designed to handle the test of time, there is a Weber grill for every budget. We get this question a lot. "Do Weber grills go on sale? ". As we do internet searches we notice that all credible stores have the same price and a few less than reputable shops veer off. Consequently, customers want to know if they can get Weber grills on sale at a lower price in a reputable store. Pricing Most physical appliance showrooms should be able to accommodate you with modest in-store discounts depending on the season. As an example, Weber grills have a high sell-through during Father's Day, 4th of July and Labor Day. Therefore, sales people are most interested in working with you to offer discounts. Weber adheres to a strict Minimum Advertised Price (MAP) policy which means all authorized dealers may only advertise one price without discounts (similar to Apple products). So, when you look at comparison shopping platforms such as Google Shopping, you will notice uniform prices across authorized dealers and the outliers are the unauthorized shops that somehow got hold of the product. Of course the downside of buying from an unauthorized store is that you will not be able to take advantage of Weber's unparalleled 15 year warranty. Weber attaches warranty only to authorized dealer locations. In addition, Weber changes model lineup periodically. Usually this creates an opportunity for deeper discounts and you will be able to get a Weber grill on sale. More on Weber Grills These gas grills are able to carry out any bbq job thrown at them from simple hamburgers and hot dogs to cedar-planked salmon, grilled paella or even a Thanksgiving turkey. Weber makes over 100 grills in various configurations. It can be very time consuming to pinpoint the best grill suitable for your particular needs. Afterall, you don't want to pay for features you are never going to use. In contrast, you wouldn't want to miss out features considering this great American grill will be with your family for 15 years or longer. In this article, we will help you select the best Weber grill for your budget and your needs. Weber grills come in 3 series. Recent Changes to Weber Genesis Grills Weber Genesis grills had myriad of changes in 2019/2020 season. First the company trimmed down the lineup that was causing confusion among shoppers. The new line up now follows a logical path both in terms of features as well as pricing. In terms of technical changes: Genesis grills, including the frame and the side tables, are now taller. All models now incorporate stainless steel flavorizer bars. No more flimsy flavorizer bars that used to wear out quicker than the rest of the grill. New handle design. Simplified Searing - a dedicated sear burner and a sear zone. Most customers did not understand the searing feature on the previous incarnation of the product. Single button "Infinity Igniter" became the default method of ignition across all Genesis gas grills. If your grates are not hot enough, the food will stick and create a messy situation for you. You will also not be able to sear effectively. Indeed, you will need to have hot grates for your "signature" grill marks. When your recipe calls for low heat, preheat on the highest setting as the first order of business. You can then open the lid while the burners are at the highest level and close the lid after a few minutes until the thermometer reads 500 F. Clean Your Grates After Each Use Heat up your grates and use a stainless steel bristle brush to scrape up charred bits. The smooth surface of Weber's grates aid in cleaning and removing residual charred food and sticky sauces. Have your tools and seasoning ready Grilling is supposed to be fun. Running in and out of your kitchen for forgotten items makes the process less fun. Use the side tables to store your seasonings, tools, serving platters and plates. Conveniently prepare BBQ sauces on the sideburner. Use your cooking area wisely Give yourself some room. You will need flexibility to move food around the grill, so try not to cram food on the cooking grates. You may even want to create different levels of heat zones to accommodate the different foods you are grilling. If you are looking, you are not cooking The lid sure looks nice but it is actually there to control air flow. The lid also traps heat and smoke which lends flavor to grilled food. When you grill with a closed lid there is also less of a chance of flare-ups. Resist the temptation and flip just once Trust your BBQ and get perfect sear-marks and ideal color and flavor from food prepared on your Weber grill. One tip, stop moving the food around the grill. Achieve grilling perfection by not opening the lid too many times. Instead, invest in an instant-read thermometer to measure temperature and cooking progress. Have fun with your Weber Modern day grilling is not just about meat dishes. You can prepare many other types of recipes with your gas grill. Over the past decade Weber built a great library of recipes and video content to make you a neighborhood hero. Cleaning and Maintenance of Your Gas Grill Weber is a great brand when it comes to longevity. Gas grills come with a 10 year comprehensive parts warranty. You can safely use a Weber gas grill 15 years. Here are a few tips on getting the best performance out of your bbq: How often do I need to clean? It is a good idea to clean your grill two times a year. If you experience uneven heat, low temperature output from burners or too many flare-ups, it's time for a good clean. Start your clean from the top and make your way to the bottom of the grill. Cleaning the inside of the lid Over time you will notice a "paint-like" black flaky deposit on the side of the lid. These flakes will eventually peel and fall on your food. Therefore, it is a good idea to clean them off using a brush. You can even wipe these deposits with a paper towel when the grill is warm. Clean what is under the grates Weber has 4 functional tiers built on top of the burners. On the top you will see the cooking grates (we already touched upon the importance of cleaning the grates). Right under the grates you will find the triangular stainless steel flavorizer bars. Flavorizer bars help catch grease and turn that grease into smoke to add flavor of your food. Heat deflectors are right under the burners and distribute the heat generated by the powerful burners. Each of these tiers are modular and you can clean them with a stainless steel bristle brush. Cleaning the burner ports is especially helpful to allow for maximum energy is transfer as well as keeping your grill safe from flare-ups. When cleaning the burner ports be careful about the ignition electrode. Conclusion The ubiquitous Weber grill has become part of the American fabric. From inspiring an impromptu dinner in the backyard on a summer evening to tail-gating and camping trips to entertaining a pool party on Taco Tuesday to being a centerpiece in a fancy outdoor kitchen, Weber grills are a part of home. From Grilled Apple Pies to Zucchini Kabobs, and all the dishes in-between, Weber Grills have a special place in our heart and we are certain you and your family will feel the same. FAQs Can I turn off the valve on the LP tank to ensure safety when the grill is not in use? Taking an extra measure of safety is a good idea. However, turn the LP tank back on by slowly opening the tank valve; wait 60 seconds before igniting your grill. If opened too quickly you may trip the flow limiting device inside the regulator. Can I convert my Weber grill from natural gas to propane (LP) or from propane to natural gas? Weber does not support conversion on its grills. Technically you should be able to replace the regulator and burners to accommodate a different gas consistency. However, even licensed plumbers do not like the risks associated with conversions.
